The 1st series of radio programmes for Anti-racism in the workplace week will be in partnership with Sinful Design, Unite Against Hate campaign and the Equality Commission for Northern Ireland and will explore with businesses and arts organisations their Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) role in Cultural Development.

Each radio programme will focus on a business with an open discussion forum with management, staff and guests to explore successes and challenges regarding their CSR model within a developing intercultural society. The programme will be recorded as a series of regular radio shows on Homely Planet, available to download on partner sites.
